Project Description

The Denver County Children Affected by Methamphetamine (CAM) Project serves children and their parents with concurrent child welfare and criminal cases. Also known as CAMDEN, this project is expanding and enhancing services to parents and children participating in the Family Integrated Drug Court (FIDC). Key elements of the CAM project include:

- Community Outreach Program – Esperanza (COPE) – a home- and school-based trauma focused treatment that includes Trauma Focused Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT) and, as needed, Parent Child Interaction Therapy;
- SafeCare – a home visitation model providing parent training in child safety, health care and parent-child interaction;
- Child Screening, Assessment and Referral – to address issues related to trauma, development, mental and physical health;
- Outreach and Engagement strategies – Staff members conducting specialized outreach and encouraging CAM participants to engage in or continue with CAM services and the FIDC.

Target Population

This project serves families and children in Denver, Colorado, the capital and largest city in the state with a population of 620,000. Services are provided to children ages 0 – 17 and families who are participating in the FIDC in Denver.

The FIDC serves families on two court dockets. All families on both dockets have an open dependency and neglect case with the Denver Department of Human Services. The first docket includes families with a concurrent criminal case in the District Court system. The second docket includes families with a concurrent criminal case in the Denver County Court system. Criminal cases are not necessarily related to the dependency and neglect case.

Major Project Goals

- Provide immediate screening and assessment for children and youth of parents with methamphetamine use and involved in the FIDC;
- Provide evidence-based, culturally competent treatment and follow-up services for trauma-exposed children and youth ages 0 – 17 with methamphetamine abusing, parents;
- Strengthen and support participating parents and caregiver's parental capacity through evidence-based home visitation programming.
